Marion Area Drive for 1,000 Victory Volunteers Mapped To Fill Ranks of War Factories

Intensive Eight-Day Campaign To Be Conducted to Fill Job Vacancies; Activities Start on May 15.

An intensive campaign for 1,000 Victory Volunteers in the Marion area will be launched a week from Monday with the joint backing of the Marion Area War Manpower committee and the Marion Industrial Victory council, with the cooperation of local draft boards and labor organizations.

Faced by a serious shortage of men workers in war industries these groups reported at a meeting yesterday that more than 900 job opportunities in war industries are available in the Marion area—and that the inability of industries to fill these jobs is posing a serious problem, in some instances making it impossible for factories to meet their production schedules.

In mapping a program to try to fill these job vacancies, Fred B. Scherff, manager of the Marion war manpower commission and U. S. Employment Service office in Marion, and Louis E. Michel, Chamber of Commerce secretary, who also serves the Marion Industrial Victory Council as secretary, decided to look first within the Marion area for enough workers to meet the need. To solve the problem, many workers in non-essential jobs must shift to essential war jobs, and workers within the area must be used at their highest skill if that skill is needed in a war industry.

Local Campaign Planned

All phases of the problem and the campaign planned in an effort to meet it were outlined yesterday at a meeting in the WMC-USES office attended by Mr. Scherff, Mr. Michel, other representatives of the Marion Industrial Victory Council, the county's three local draft boards and the citywide labor organizations. It was emphasized that every effort will be made to solve the problem locally before any appeal is made for state or federal assistance.

WMC regulations virtually compel this course of action, insisting that war factories are not permitted to go shopping in other localities for workers unless the factories hold a priority from the state manpower priorities committee. In the past, only one Marion war project, the Marion Engineer Depot, held such a priority rating, but even this priority has been suspended for the duration of the Marion Victory Volunteers drive, so that all war industries in the area may have an opportunity to share in the new workers enlisted in the drive.

Will Start May 15

The Marion campaign will be heralded in advertisements to start next week, and activities will get under way on Monday, May 15, with a busy program aimed at calling the need for war workers to the attention of every family in Marion. Although the appeal is area-wide, the most intensive effort will be made in Marion city and county.

Some of the features of the Victory Volunteers drive follow.

Sunday, May 14—Marion county churches asked to make announcements about the drive.

Monday, May 15—Letter to be sent to every Marion home by the U. S. Employment service office explaining the drive and asking for information about workers in each family. In conjunction with this mail appeal, the city's block leaders organization headed by Roy Waddell will canvass Marion homes for information from each family. The day also will be marked by the premier showing of a new Army display of field pieces and other equipment captured from the Germans and Japs. This show, a sizeable display that will occupy a large show room and a section of a Marion street, will be here all day and will open free to the public. Also, Monday will bring the first of four neighborhood shows which will include three movies and announcements. The Monday show will be at Edison Junior High school.

Tuesday, May 16 — Second neighborhood show at Central Vernon Heights Junior High school.

Wednesday, May 17 — Third neighborhood show at Central Junior High school.

Thursday, May 18 — Final neighborhood show at Silver Street school.

The movies to be shown at the neighborhood programs include one showing the use of heavy equipment of the type manufactured in Marion. It will show how rollers, excavators and other pieces of heavy equipment serve along side of guns and planes when invasion forces strike.

Another film will be one of the latest Army newsreels showing important action shots, and the third will be on the home-front war effort.

At yesterday's meeting, final plans were made for the Marion Area War Manpower committee, made up of representatives of labor and management, and the Marion Industrial Victory Council, made up of executives of Marion industrial concerns, to sponsor the campaign, with the cooperation of the local Selective Service Boards and the Marion Central Labor Union (AFL) and the Marion Industrial Union Council (CIO).

SUN SHINES FOR DERBY TODAY

Crowd of 60,000 Expected To See 70th Running of Premiere Race.

By The Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 6 — A bright sun greeted derby day visitors today after 36 hours of almost continuous rain.

The weather man promised fair skies for the running of the 70th Kentucky derby, with the temperature rising slowly during the day.

Nineteen of the nation's outstanding three-year-olds awaited post time. The list of potential starters was the biggest in seven years.

America's oldest and premier turf classic probably will be witnessed by a crowd in excess of 60,000. It is the greatest one-day color spot in sport.

Not all the potential 19 starters will go to the post at 5:15 p. m. central war time for the mile and one quarter test, but if all should, the race will be the richest in derby history with a gross value of $86,200. The owner of the triumphant thoroughbred would haul down a pot of $66,700. The previous record purse was $86,250 in 1942 when Shut Out galloped to victory to earn $64,225. For each scratch the gross value and purse to the winner shrinks by $500, the starting fee that must be paid 45 minutes before the horses are led into the gate to face starter Rueben White.

Because of his performance in winning the $25,000 added Wood memorial and two other important stakes this year, Stir Up, from Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable, remained a pre-race favorite at odds of 8 to 5. His favoritism was advanced further by the fact that he'll have Eddie Arcaro, the nation's No. 1 jockey, on his back.

Almost everything worked out to Stir Up's liking. He will start from the No. 6 post position, a spot that will give him an opportunity to break quickly and sweep into the lead. The condition of the track, even with welcome sunshine, does not promise to be much better than "good." Furthermore, the Greentree gelding can run on any kind of a track, but favors one where the footing isn't too firm.

After Stir Up, the winner becomes strictly a guess. Warren Wright's Pensive, Mrs. George Poulsen's Broadcloth, M. B. Goff's Skytracer, O. E. Brealt's Challenge Me, Alorter, Gramps Image, Autocrat and Gay Bit all had their supporters in what promises to be one of the most open derbies in years.

The track handicapper made Stir Up his No. 1 choice, with Skytracer second and Broadcloth third. Challenge Me, Pensive, Alorter, Gramps Image, Autocrat and Gay Bit followed in that order.

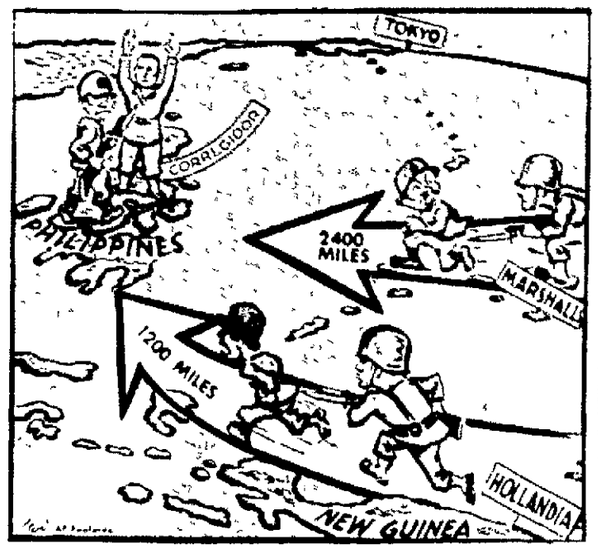

Bus Strikers Ignore Back To Work Order

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 6 — A walkout involving 175 drivers and 35 ticket agents of the Penn-Ohio coach lines continued today despite a regional war labor board ultimatum that the striking men would face "appropriate action or sanctions" should the stoppage continue.

A meeting drivers and agents in Akron last night brought no decision in the five-day-old walkout which tied up bus transportation between Cleveland, Akron, Canton and Youngstown, O., and Wheeling, W. Va.

In Cleveland yesterday the regional WLB unanimously concluded that the drivers and ticket sellers were on strike against a no-strike pledge and in violation of labor's national policy and threatened to certify the dispute to the national agency if operations were not resumed.

GANDHI GIVEN RELEASE TODAY

Indian Leader, Critically Ill, Taken from Palace of Aga Khan.

By The Associated Press

BOMBAY, India, May 6—Mohandas K. Gandhi, Indian nationalist leader, was released today from the Aga Khan's summer palace in Poona where he had been detained since August, 1942.

The government earlier announced its decision to release the 74-year-old leader unconditionally in view of the condition of his health. Gandhi had failed to recover after an attack of malaria. The British had confined him for political activity which they regarded as hampering India's resistance to Japan.

Newspapers of all shades of opinion—nationalist as well as English-owned — welcomed the action.

In view of the country-wide appeals for Gandhi's release, Lord Wavell's prompt move increased his prestige which already was high following his personal intervention in the Bengal famine and the personal interest he took when Bombay was shaken by two explosions on April 14.

Gandhi is spending his newly regained freedom at "Parnakuti," the Poona mansion of Lady Vitall Das Thackersey, an old friend of Gandhi and a warm supporter of the Indian National Congress of which Gandhi is the driving force.

A crowd of his followers, acting quickly on the news of his impending release, gathered at the gates of the Aga Khan's palace to greet him. Gandhi looked cheerful but tired and was conveyed immediately to "Parnakuti."

At "Parnakuti" a medical bulletin declared Gandhi has "become very weak and there is physical and mental exhaustion though he keeps cheerful."

POLICE SEEK CLUE IN TRUNK MYSTERY

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 6—Police questioned more than a dozen men and women today in the mysterious death of a woman whose semi-nude body was shipped from Chicago to Los Angeles in a trunk. Search also was intensified for the man who arranged the shipment.

Packed in salt and a mass of blood soaked clothing, the body was discovered by a Los Angeles railway express clerk yesterday when he opened the trunk when he saw brine seeping from it.

No injury was found on the body, but Los Angeles authorities said further examinations were to be made. They identified her as between 30 and 40 years old.

Police Lt. Philip Brietzke said detectives had established that the trunk was shipped early last Sunday morning by a man about 42 years old. He was accompanied to the railroad station by a 13-year-old boy.

Brietzke said the man told Charles R. Heniff, rate clerk at a railway express agency, the trunk contained his personal belongings and he gave the name of John Lopez as both shipper and addressee.

The trunk was sent C.O.D., Brietzke said Heniff reported.

Earlier investigation turned to a small hotel near Chicago's loop, when towels from the hostelry were found in the trunk. Police said they had learned that a man and woman registered as "John Lopez and wife" had lived there last winter, leaving two months ago without leaving a forward address.

Siamese Twins, Ill Since Birth, Die

By The Associated Press

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa., May 6—To Joyce and Sandra Sterly, tiny blond girls doomed never to have a separate existence, death came as a release today from the bonds that joined them at birth six days ago.

Joyce, the larger, ceased her labored breathing shortly after midnight and Sandra, whose circulatory weakness foretold an early end to the struggle for life, died a few minutes later.

Theirs was the only birth of Siamese twins ever recorded in Pennsylvania and the way in which their gaunt bodies were joined—with heads at opposite ends of the crib—was said by doctors to be almost unprecedented anywhere.

The twins' widowed mother, Mrs. Mary Sulerly, 24, wasn't to be told of their death until later today. Her husband Harold, was killed in a motorcycle accident two months ago.

Dr. J. Elmer Gotwals, who delivered the twins, said they contracted pneumonia.

Dr. Gotwals said the twins were joined "end to end with a common pelvic area. Running out perpendicularly from one side of the pelvic area was one leg which had been fused together from two legs. This fused leg tapered down to a tiny heel and a single, tiny toe."

NEW TAX MEASURE HEADS FOR SENATE

(More about Tax on Page 4)

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 6 — A house-approved "streamlined" tax bill today headed for the senate and a welcome as the cure for the March 15 headache that still hangs on.

Approved unanimously by the house yesterday, the measure is designed to make tax computation as painless as possible. It goes to the senate finance committee Monday.

Chairman George (D-Ga) said he and other Democrats on the committee were disposed to go along with the house version of the bill, which is expected to relieve 30,000,000 taxpayers of the irksome job of making out a complicated federal return.

Republicans also predicted swift approval.

The measure would scrap the two-year-old "victory" tax, setting new normal and surtax rates that would keep payments at about their present level.

It would make the payroll withholding levy the total tax collection for salary earners up to $5,000 yearly, effective next January. Of the 20,000,000 still required to file returns, about half could use a simplified table which would compute their tax quickly.

Steel Workers Laud Ward Plant Seizure

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., May 6—The war labor board and the President have been commended for "their forthright action" in the Montgomery Ward & Co. labor dispute at a pre-convention meeting of the CIO-United Steelworkers of America.

The international executive board of CIO-USA yesterday unanimously adopted a resolution "commending the national war labor board and the President for their forthright action in demonstrating to Sewell Avery and the Montgomery Ward & Co. that they are not above the law and that they will not be permitted to provoke industrial disputes in order to adversely affect the war effort."

The resolution was signed by President Phillip Murray. The CIO-USA will hold a five-day convention here beginning next Tuesday.

JAPS HOLDING OFFENSIVE IN ONLY ONE AREA

Two Years After Fall of Corregidor Enemy Losing on 4 of 5 Fronts.

By The Associated Press

Exactly two years after forcing a humiliating surrender upon the defenders of the Philippines, the fighting forces of Japan today found themselves on the offensive in only one of five theaters of war. But that offensive contained a grave threat to China.

The enemy was engaged in a many-pronged operation in China's rich north-east region. In Chungking there was a feeling the operation had a grand objective: to knock China out of the war and remove it as a possible base for allied attacks on Japan's home islands. The Japanese appeared to have won control of all but 40 miles of the Peiping-Hankow rail route, crossroad to the northwest. The seizure of this junction would facilitate a drive upon Chungking.

Reports of Allied Success

From the other four theaters came reports of allied success.

In India the British opened a general attack to clear the invaders from the Kohima area. Southeast Asia headquarters declared the Japanese were thrown out of important positions around that allied base protecting the Assam-Bengal supply route to China and Burma.

Across the border in Burma Lt. Gen. Joseph Stilwell's Chinese soldiers bowled over the Japanese to advance down the valley leading to Mogaung. Enemy defenses in another part of the valley also were overpowered in the American general's drive to capture Mogaung and Myitkyina, enemy bases blocking a future junction of the Ledo and Burma roads.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Adm. Chester W. Nimitz maintained their persistent air attacks on enemy bastions from the Kurlles north of Japan to New Guinea and the Marshalls.

Fliers Step Up Attack

MacArthur's fliers stepped up their attacks on the Schouten islands, which stand between newly-captured Hollandia and the Philippines. Southwest Pacific airmen also hit Wewak to Hollandia's rear, and Wake Island to the west.

Some of the 60,000 enemy troops isolated in the Hollandia invasion were observed concentrating at Wewak, MacArthur's headquarters reported.

Adm. Nimitz' Central Pacific air units hit Paramushiro above Japan. Other Nimitz forces hit Nauru, Ponape east of Truk and islands in the Marshalls.

Two years ago Lt.-Gen. Jonathan Wainwright surrendered on Corregidor.

RECORDER CANDIDATE DECLARED INELIGIBLE

Lack of Registration Disqualifies G. Eugene Williams.

G. Eugene Williams, unopposed candidate for the Republican nomination for Marion county recorder in Tuesday's election, will be unable to qualify for a certificate of nomination, county election officials announced today.

They said Williams is not properly registered as a Marion county voter, and that the secretary of state has ruled this will make him ineligible for the nomination.

Williams' name will remain on the ballot Tuesday, but the votes cast for him will be to no effect, officials said.

Marion Hospital To Be a Penicillin Depot

The Marion City hospital has been selected as one of 18 Ohio hospitals as a distributing depot for penicillin for civilian use, an Associated Press dispatch from Washington stated today.

The announcement came from the War Production Board and stated that an advisory panel, including representatives of WPB, the U. S. Public Health Service and the American Medical Association named the depots. Requests from other hospitals will be recognized by them and they will furnish penicillin when the supply permits its sale, the announcement stated.

CHILD KILLED IN CRASH

5 KILLED IN CRASH

By The Associated Press

McCOOK, Nebr., May 6 — Five men were killed, one was injured seriously and two sustained minor bruises yesterday when a B-24 Liberator bomber from the McCook Army Air Base crashed and burned 13 miles northeast of Max-ill, Nebr., Lt. Col. Stanley M. Persons, commander of the McCook base, said today. The dead included Staff Sgt. Charles W. Runnion of Akron, O.

MARION PILOT NAZI PRISONER

Lt. Robert Wills, Missing for Month, Reported in Hands of Germans.

Lt. Robert Wills, husband of Mrs. June Wills of 669 Concord avenue and son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wills of 927 Merkel avenue, has been reported a prisoner of war in Germany in a telegram from the war department, received this morning.

The message came from the International Red Cross through the war department and stated that a letter would follow giving details.

Lt. Wills had been reported missing in action after a raid over Germany on March 23. He was pilot of a bomber which was lost in the raid on objectives in western Germany.

Mrs. Wills had received a letter from her husband a few hours before word came that he was missing in action and no other word had been received since.

Lt. Wills entered the service two years ago last January and has been overseas since January of this year. He received his wings and commission a year ago last October at Miami Beach, Fla. He was sent from Florida to Colorado Springs, Colo., and other training places. He visited Marion last Christmas a short time before going overseas. Lt. and Mrs. Wills were married on Christmas, 1941. He is a graduate of Harding High school and studied a year at the Academy of Art at Cincinnati. Mrs. Wills is making her home with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Imbody.

WARD SEIZURE ORDER EXTENDED BY JUDGE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 6 — Federal Judge William H. Holly today extended his order restraining officials of Montgomery Ward and Company from interfering with government control of the huge mail order firm's Chicago plants.

The judge said he would rule at 10 a. m. Wednesday on the company's motion to dissolve the restrainer and the government's plea to have it replaced by a temporary injunction.

The time for Judge Holly's decision is a day after a NLRB election, set for Tuesday, to determine whether the CIO United Mail Order, Warehouse and Retail Employes union still represents a majority of nearly 6,000 eligible employes.

George B. Christensen, Ward attorney, said he had opposed Judge Holly's action and had requested the court to decide the injunction phase of the case before the election.

"There is a question whether the election would be valid while the employes are employes of the U. S. government, as they are under the sweeping terms of President Roosevelt's order for seizure of the properties, because the national labor relations act specifically excludes U. S. employes from its operations," Christensen told reporters.

WHITE FOR HUFFMAN

AREA 20 MILES DEEP CLEARED OF CIVILIANS

In Western Europe Heavy Air Blows from England Go Into Fourth Week.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NAPLES, May 6 — American bombers today attacked five points in Romania.

• • •

The Germans are reported to have evacuated all Italian civilians beyond the Fifth army's main front for a depth of 20 miles, allied headquarters announced today.

It was explained this meant the evacuation of several sizable towns within the 20-mile belt.

In the lower Garigliano sector of this front, an increase in infantry action was reported and in the upper river valley an enemy patrol attempting to cross the stream in rubber boats was repulsed, it was announced.

On the beachhead and the Eighth army front several minor clashes occurred.

Air Blow in 4th Week

The allied offensive of the skyways against the perimeter defenses of fortress Europe went into the fourth week today with a smash at the Nazis' much vaunted secret installations in northwestern France following another telling blow against the Balkans.

Despite stormy weather, nearly 250 U. S. Liberator bombers with an equal number of escorting fighters pounded Hitler's Atlantic wall emplacements in the Pas-De-Calais department of France today.

British Halifaxes and Wellingtons bombed rail yards and oil storage tanks at Campina, 10 miles northwest of Ploesti in Romania, last night.

The British-based U. S. Liberators did all their bombing in the Pas-De-Calais through an overcast so thick the German ground gunners did not even bother to shoot at some of the attackers. No enemy fighters were encountered.

The jittery Nazis sent the German air force on a reconnaissance expedition over northeastern Scotland last night. The German planes set off a barrage from ground guns, but no bombs were reported to have been dropped.

Allied bombers struck again last night into the Balkans following Friday's spectacular breaching of the Pescara dam in Italy and daylight attacks by American heavy bombers on two Romanian rail centers.

Blast Italian Dam

In the overnight blow, British Halifaxes and Wellingtons bombed the railway yards and oil storage tanks at Campina, in Romania 10 miles northwest of Ploesti. It was the first RAF raid on that oil field.

Dive-bombing Kittyhawks and Mustangs, flown by British, Australian and South African pilots, executed the attack on the Pescara dam, spilling flood waters over German communications and defenses 10 miles beyond the Adriatic end of the long-dormant eighth army front.

In all operations in the Mediterranean theater yesterday, embracing 1,060 sorties, 16 heavy bombers and eight other allied planes were lost, headquarters said. Eleven German planes were destroyed.

The dam, 19 miles up the Pescara river from the port of the same name, had penned up a huge lake. At last reports a great wall of flood waters was moving downstream toward Pescara. The Germans had depended on the dam for electric power.

PRESIDENT REQUESTS LEASE-LEND FUNDS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 6—President Roosevelt asked congress today to appropriate $3,150,570,000 to carry forward the lend-lease program for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1945.

He also requested that any unexpended balances of previous lend-lease appropriations be made available, which would make the aggregate for the new year $7,-188,893,000.

The President's recommendations were forwarded a few hours after Senator Ellender (D-La) had urged that the United States fix now a policy on final lend-lease settlements.

The appropriation, the White House said in a statment, is for industrial products required for the manufacture of planes, tanks, guns and other war supplies in allied countries, food and other agricultural products needed to maintain the rations of their soldiers and war workers, and related services.

The Glorious Fact of God

A Sermonette
By DR. WARREN P. BEHAN
Interim Minister of Trinity Baptist Church

* * *

"I believe God." Acts 27:25.

* * *

WE HAVE become so accustomed to the idea of God that we do not appreciate what a glorious fact the fact of God is.

Consider with me then, this glorious fact of God.

I have no argument to present for the existence of God. God is not to be proved by test-tube mathematics or syllogism, and neither are those other inescapable realities, the beauty of a sunset, the warmth and strength of a mother's love.

I call your attention to four great affirmations regarding this glorious fact of God:

I, science builds upon it; II, history affirms it; III, the Bible records it; IV, human experience confirms it.

I. Science builds upon it. A professor of engineering after passing through agnosticism to faith put it this way, "If anyone could prove to me that the thing which I have found is not true (this faith in the fact of God), I would still have to believe it for the universe wouldn't make sense without it."

Of course it wouldn't. There is in nature the evidence of Cause—Force—Law; there is the demonstration of purpose, process, evolution; there is the revelation of marvelous unity and harmony. Science, today, instead of having driven God out of the picture is continually pointing to creative energy, to unfolding Purpose, to directing Will, to sustaining Reality. And all this leads to the inevitable alternative—either chaos or cosmos, either chance or God I take the glorious fact of God.

II. History affirms it. Looking back over the centuries, man has moved from lower to higher, nations have mounted the ladder of civilization, and in spite of the present dread days of devastation and death progress has been made. Where is the ancient world with its tyranny and oppression? Gone. Where is the medieval world with its ignorance and superstition? Gone. Where is our present world with its strife and greed and hatred and cruelty? Going. History is constantly saying:

"Truth forever on the scaffold,
Wrong forever on the throne,
Yet that scaffold sways the future
and behind the dim unknown
Standeth God within the shadow

The most glorious fact of history is not the pyramids, nor the grandeur that was Rome's, nor the glory that was Greece, nor the riches of Croesus, nor the power and splendor of oriental courts, nor the pomp and might of the medieval church, nor the British nor any other empire, nor the fuehrer nor any other human leader, nor "the cooperation and trust and might of the Allied Nations, but—the Will—the Wisdom—the Power—the Love of God. Take God out and all is out.

III. The Bible records it. It has one unique feature—it is permeated with and pervaded by a consciousness of God such as no other book. This is the distinguishing characteristic of the Jewish nation. It is the crowning revelation of Him who made the New Testament and Christianity possible—Jesus of Nazareth. God was the central fact of His life from the time of His youth. "I must be about my Father's business." Through the period of His early ministry, "My Father worketh hitherto and I work." And to His tragic experience on the cross, "Father, into Thy hands I commend My Spirit." Through it all stood the glorious fact of God. As he faced evil in its most provoking and baffling form; as he suffered physical pain and social exclusion and mental anxiety and moral isolation. What is the biggest fear in your life? Home, work, hobby, business, health? For Jesus it was God.

And the Bible bears witness to another reality. In His own life Jesus makes a unique contribution to this glorious fact of God. What is this fact of God like? He is like Jesus! God is a Christ-like God. Not only is He sovereign and directing spirit, but Holy Love and Redeeming Grace as revealed in Jesus. "In the face of Jesus we see the glory of God."

IV. I come to the final affirmation: Human experience confirms the glorious fact of God. On a Babylonian tablet two thousand years before Christ are inscribed these words: "Trembling one, pursued by evil, dash thyself against the bosom of thy God." St. Augustine after a licentious youth entered into a transforming experience through faith in Christ and he writes, "Thou hast made us for Thyself, O God, and the heart is restless till it rests in Thee." Luther, a prisoner in the Wartburg castle beset by his bitter enemies could sing: "A mighty fortress is our God, a bulwark never failing." While Lord Tennyson writing to a friend has expressed the great discovery shared by an increasing number of God's followers everywhere, "I should be sorely afraid to live my life without God's presence; but to feel that He is by my side just now as much as you are, that is the very joy of my life."

I give you, then, this glorious fact of God. Science builds upon it, history affirms it, the Bible records it, human experience confirms it. Why not launch out, today, upon it? The glorious fact of God spells the doom of sin and gives assurance of final victory of truth and righteousness. It liberates us from worry and fear and self-contempt. It comforts us in sorrow and trial and loneliness. It restores, refreshes, redeems. "Have Faith in God!"

Camp Sychar Rally To Be Held Monday

DR. H. E. JESSOP

A Camp Sychar rally will be held at Calvary Evangelical church here Monday in preparation for the camp meeting season at Camp Sychar near Mt. Vernon, O., which is held each summer there. The meeting will be interdenominational and an audience of friends of the camp program throughout this area is expected. Speakers will be Dr. E. W. Pettlcord of Fremont, O., and Dr. H. E. Jessop of Chicago.

Dr. Pettlcord, evangelist, will give the morning message at 10:30 and Dr. Jessop, dean of the Chicago Evangelistic institute, will preach at 2:30 p. m. and 7:30. The dinner hour will be 12:15 p. m. and at 1:30 a praise service will be conducted by Rev. E. E. Shiltz of Byesville, O. Rev. W. L. Mullet of Walhonding, O., will have charge of singing, Rev. C. R. Wendell of Toledo, Camp Sychar president, will preside. Rev. R. W. Faulkner is host pastor. This will be one of a series of rally meetings throughout the state.

Lutherans Raising World Action Fund

Marion Lutheran churches will join with churches of all Lutheran bodies tomorrow in observing Lutheran World Action Sunday. Special offerings will be taken with a goal of $1,316,000 in view. The slogan of the movement is "A ray of hope for the millions." The amount divided as to uses includes $800,000 for the service commission which is composed of 700 Lutheran chaplains; $450,000 for foreign missions; $150,000, commission on American missions; $40,000, prisoner aid, emergency welfare centers and similar funds; $15,000, American Bible society work; $10,000 radio ministry; $50,000 miscellaneous projects. Offerings will be taken in services at Emanuel Lutheran and St. Paul English Lutheran churches here.

PASTOR CANDIDATES ON CHURCH PROGRAM

First Will Be at Emmanuel Baptist Sunday.

Candidates for the pastorate of Emmanuel Baptist church will be heard by the congregation within the next few weeks with the purpose of choosing a new minister. The pastorate was vacated recently by Ernest A. Finkenbiner, pastor here three and a half years, when he accepted a call to the Central Baptist church in Columbus.

First of the candidates will be heard tomorrow at morning and evening services, Rev. Sylvester F. Porter, pastor of Calvary Baptist church at Noblesville, Ind., and a former pastor here, will preach. He was pastor of Emmanuel church seven years, leaving about nine years ago to complete schooling at Asbury college, Wilmore, Ky. While pastor at Noblesville he has been directing personnel work in the Youth for Christ movement services at Indianapolis, Ind., and conducting instruction for converts at the close of weekly evangelistic services there. He is ministerial advisor for the Hamilton county Youth for Christ work.

His sermon at the service at 10:30 a. m. will be based on the text, "And he taught, saying unto them, Is it not written, my house shall be called of all nations the house of prayer?" from the book of Mark, and his evening subject at 7:30 will be "The Most Important Thing."

Special Services At Trinity Baptist Church

Two special services will be held at Trinity Baptist church tomorrow and the annual dinner and business meeting of the congregation will be held Wednesday night.

At the morning service tomorrow at 10:30 the Lord's supper rite will be observed with Dr. W. P. Behan giving as the communion meditation "This Grace Also."

A service of song and praise will be at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow with Dr. Behan preaching on "The Case of Dad or Lad."

The dinner Wednesday nigh will be at 6:30 in the church dining room with business following.

Preceding Mother's day, May 14, Marion churches will join churches throughout the country in celebrating National Family week, May 7-14. The observance will be climaxed by the Mother's day programs. Various meetings and services on different themes for next week have been arranged by some churches and sermons on religion and the family life will be given tomorrow.

Programs for the week have been arranged by Epworth Methodist, Calvary Evangelical and First Church of the Brethren with special sermons tomorrow, and Family week sermons will be given in First Evangelical and Reformed church and Greenwood Evangelical church.

At Epworth church services will include the worship hour tomorrow morning at 10:45 a. m. at which members of families will sit together. Parents are to meet children at the door of the Junior church room and take them to the adult service. There will be special music. At 7:30 p. m. the Junior church group will give a demonstration service for parents and friends in the Junior church room.

Family Night

Monday night has been designated as "family night at home" with families gathered together for the evening at their homes. On Friday at 6:15 p. m. the Church Family dinner will be held potluck style with carry-in table service at the church dining room for Sunday school teachers, class members, officers and their families and other families wishing to attend. Mrs. George Smith will be in charge of menu which will be available at church office.

Calvary church will mark week with the service tomorrow morning at 10:30, the mid-service Wednesday night at which time prayer meeting will be held for various age groups of families attending, and dinner of Friday night as "family night at home" for family fellowship council and worship together course in Christian education. "The Home and the Church Working Together in the Religious Culture of Children," will begin Sunday morning at 9:15 in the church Upper Room sanctuary and will be taught by Mrs. Mabel Swisher. The textbook, "Our Rightful Heritage" will be available at the classrooms or from the pastor and the course will be open to adult and young adult groups. It will continue for 10 Sunday mornings.

Church of Brethren

Three meetings will mark observance of the week in First Church of the Brethren. The first will be the service tomorrow morning at 9:30 a. m. with special sermon by the pastor, at Wednesday night prayer service emphasis will be placed on "Value of the Bible in the Family Circle." and Thursday night annual Mother's and Daughter banquet will be held in the social room of the church basement.

Sermons tomorrow morning will be "The Christian Family," by S. M. Inmire, Epworth church; "The Christian Home," Rev. R. W. Faulkner, Calvary church; "The Family in Today's Society," Rev. E. M. Hertzler, Brethren church; "The Ideal Christian Home," Rev. E. H. Wierth, First Evangelical and Reformed; "Our Home Life," Rev. R. L. Sutherland, Greenwood church.

Details of the Epworth Junior church service for parents tomorrow night include piano prelude by Sonny Dowler, call to worship Scripture by Jean Click and Sue Swink, sentence prayers and Lord's prayer, anthem by Junior choir accompanied by Mrs. Josephine Locke, Bible drill by Jo Cheney and Frankie Knapp, Bible song, silent prayer for those in service, flag ceremony in charge of Sue Terzo and Dick Lawrence, solo by Nancy Indoe, "Walkie Talkie" flannelboard illustrated stories and theme, "Our Church Where We Study the Bible Together" led by Miss Marsa Huffman.

Pictures of Servicemen To Be Unveiled Sunday

In special services at 10:30 Sunday morning at Salem Evangelical and Reformed church a picture containing snapshots of sons of Salem members in service will be unveiled. There will be a roll call of service men and a prayer service for them. Rev. H. C. Ahrens, pastor, will preach on "Fighting a Good Fight."

Schlairet Truck Trailers Looted; Goods Damaged

James Schlairet of the Schlairet Transfer Co., 324 Lincoln avenue, reported to police early this morning that the trailers parked in the rear of the warehouse had been ransacked and the merchandise piled on the ground. Police investigated and found 12 quarts of motor oil had been removed through a broken window, but all except two quarts were found outside the building. Some of the merchandise which had been piled on the ground was smashed. Extent of the damage wasn't known when Mr. Schlairet reported to the police at 4 a. m. today.

Durbin's Name Stamped on Hardin County Ballots

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., May 6 — The name of Andrew T. Durbin, Kenton, son of the late "Col." W. W. Durbin of magic fame and former Ohio political boss, today was stamped on ballots to be voted by the Hardin county electorate Tuesday. His name had been inadvertently omitted by the printer as a district candidate for the Democratic state central committee although his name appeared on ballots in other counties of the district. Elections Clerk Carlos A. Faulkner said Mr. Durbin's declaration of candidacy had been received in ample time and that omission of his name was an error.

Polish Catholic Priest Confers with Stalin

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, May 6—Rev. Stanislaus Orlemanski of Springfield, Mass., conferred with Premier Stalin and Foreign Commissar Molotov again for two hours Thursday and today he described Stalin as "very friendly disposed toward the Roman Catholic church."

Winding up a 12-day visit to the Soviet Union, the Polish American priest said Catholicism would remain "the religion of Poland and that Stalin will not tolerate any transgressions in this regard."

The 1943 bread grain production in the British Empire was the highest of the war years.

Q. For sometime I have been wanting to obtain some seeds of the thornless honeylocust, but I have not succeeded in finding the name of a dealer who handles tree seeds. Is this tree you mention the Gleditsia triacanthos? The tree I have in mind is a legume, producing long pods with a high sugar content.

A. In the Ozark mountains, roughly half of the honeylocusts are thornless, the other half have the usual thorns. So consequently, if you attempted to raise it from seed obtained in the Ozarks, only half of them would be of the thornless type. It would, however, be a simple matter to select the seedlings after they are a couple years old. Most nurseries grow the thornless honeylocusts. It is one of the best trees for shrub planting.

Q.: I have just received an amaryllis bulb and it seems to be thriving so far, but I am puzzled as to the amount of water to be given to it. Do primroses need much water or should they be watered sparingly?

A.: Until your amaryllis develops leaves, it will require but little water. Primroses with their large amount of leafy surface require a considerable amount of water, usually having to be watered every day. We have a leaflet on amaryllis and African violets which we will send upon request.

Annual Meeting Held by Prospect Church

Annual meeting of the Prospect Baptist church was held Wednesday night. It was reported that attendance at the morning worship service has increased 100 per cent and evening services started.

The budget for the past year exceeded that of the previous year by $2,500, missionary giving has increased, and the final indebtedness of $1,200 has been removed, church officials reported.

Newly elected officers include Mrs. Ralph McPherson, church clerk and Mrs. Charles Kirby, Sunday school superintendent. The Sunday school also had a successful year with increased attendance and a missionary gift of $55.

Furnace Needs Attention, Too, When Spring Housecleaning Is Under Way

An important part of the job of spring housecleaning is putting the heating plant up for the summer. This is very often neglected, either through lack of knowledge or carelessness.

Many basements have a tendency to be damp in the summertime, and dampness, or high humidity, can play havoc with the metal in the furnace, smokepipe, stoker, etc., just as it causes fabrics and leathers to mildew.

There is sometimes an accumulation of soot and fly-ash in the gas passages of the furnace and in the smokepipe. Any condition of this kind tends to draw moisture. If this condition persists during the summertime, metal surfaces will rust, and in the case of a smokepipe it may rust clear through in one summer.

Clean Passages

The remedy is simple. At the end of the heating season simply brush out the gas passages of the boiler and furnace. Clean all of the ashes and unburned coal out of the firebox and ashpit. Take the smokepipe down, clean out any soot or fly-ash that may have accumulated in it, or in the base of the chimney. The smokepipe may be left down for the balance of the summer. A good plan would be to coat it, both inside and out, with used motor oil, wax, asphalt paint or any other low-priced coating that will keep air away from it during the summer. If desired, it can then be put back in place.

A little spring housecleaning of the heating plant will pay dividends in preserving the metal. In addition, the heating plant will be ready for service in the fall. Other benefits are the timely opportunity to inspect the grates for warps and breaks, and to examine the firebowl for cracks. Any needed repairs can then be ordered during the summer. Practically any furnace company, stoker company, or retail coal merchant will do this cleaning for you at a nominal charge. If there is any doubt about the furnace needing new parts or repairs, it is well to call on one of these companies for advice and assistance.

If you have a warm-air furnace, the registers should be taken out and the register boot and pipes cleaned as far down as you can reach, preferably with the vacuum sweeper. Then the register should be securely closed so that no dirt may enter during the summer months. The dirt in the home will then be materially reduced in the next heating season.

Appalachian coals, incorporated, Transportation Building, Cincinnati, O., will be glad to give advice on any problem confronting you in connection with your heating plant. Simply address a letter stating your difficulty to the Chief Engineer, Appalachian Coals, Inc., and it will receive a prompt reply. There is no charge for this service.

Apparent Surplus of Food

THE psychological problem posed by the OPA's progressive relaxation of ration point values on food this spring may be harder to handle in the long run than the distribution problem from which it has grown.

There is only an apparent surplus of certain commodities, not a real one. Nevertheless, the apparent surplus has caused OPA to adopt measures which may persuade a large segment of the population that the surplus is real, with consequent relaxation of food production efforts.

OPA's objective is to give producers and processors in certain lines a chance to dispose of stocks more rapidly than the rate allowed by ration-restricted demands which failed to keep abreast of supplies. At the same time, the effect will be to clear warehouse space which will be needed for the new supplies of the current growing season.

To over-simplify the matter, there would be no apparent surplus if all the commodities were in the non-perishable classification and if there were adequate storage space to back them up for coming needs. There can be no such thing as an absolute surplus of foodstuffs in wartime.

For example, a sudden ending of the war in Europe or Asia, unlikely as that seems to be at the moment, would clear the apparent surpluses wherever they exist, subject only to the limitations of shipping space needed to transport food abroad. Whereas in manufactured war material, demand will cease whenever hostilities cease, in foodstuffs the cessation of hostilities will create a virtually insatiable demand. There is no justification in the circumstances as they exist now to curtail production merely because the supply of some commodities temporarily has outstripped ration-restricted demand.

Too Little, Too Late for Hitlerism

GERMAN moves to pick up belated support for a National Socialist version of post-war organization in Europe will call attention to the Allies' failure to propose concrete plans, but unless the majority of observers have been wrong, Hitlerism is offering too little and too late. The Germans have incurred the undying hatred of captive populations for their arrogant behavior as military conquerors. Whatever plans might be proposed could not erase the stigma of terrorism and looting.

The Allies will go into Europe as liberators of the captive populations from German-created conditions which speak louder than plans. They do not pretend to be able to map the future, holding that to be a matter of self-determination for people now denied any future other than that determined by their masters in Berlin—a future they have learned to dread by their experiences with German domination in the present.

The Horse Behind the Cart

IF THE discipline of law had been relied on, instead of the decisions of men, in the Montgomery Ward affair, the issue would have been joined in a poll of the affected employes. Thereafter, if the union concerned had won the rights the company was ordered to give it—and if the company had refused—the government's position would have been unassailable.

But the way things have turned out, the government has alarmed the nation with a seizure contrary to the spirit and letter of the Constitution and the whole affair still depends on the outcome of the collective bargaining election. The horse and the cart are reversed and confusion reigns supreme.

If, on Tuesday, the collective bargaining election fails to show the union with a majority, the government's case falls flat, at least in public opinion. If in the meantime, Judge William H. Holly of the United States district court accedes to Atty. Gen. Biddle's plea for a permanent injunction restraining company officials from interfering with government operation of the company, it looks as though the judge and the attorney general would be left high and dry.

Japan Must Be Nervous Too

INVASION suspense is not limited to the western hemisphere. Even if Americans overlook it, the Japanese are not going to forget that when the war with Germany has been forced to its bloody climax and won, the war in the Pacific will have the undivided attention of the victors.

There will be, in all probability, an invasion of Japan eventually. It lies somewhere in the future; there has been no D-day set. But invasion has been for many months the vital security problem of Japanese militarists as they received word of the steady disintegration of their new empire's outer defense.

They know, of course, where they are strongest, where they are weakest, what kind of an invasion attempt would be hardest to resist, what kind would be easiest. What they have done about or may be preparing to do is unknown outside their country; there is slight chance that it can be discovered until their island can be covered as completely by Allied air power as the Allies now cover Europe from the island of England.

When invasion of Europe comes, no one will follow its course more closely than the Japanese.

Today and Tomorrow

European Neutrals Asked To Help Shorten War; Their Problems Difficult.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

AS we draw nearer the grand climax of the European war, the remaining neutrals and Axis satellites face very grave decisions. Leaving out Switzerland, which by its geography and its history is unique, the European neutrals are Sweden, Portugal, Spain, Turkey and Eire. All of these lie within the orbit of British-American sea power, and Allied dealings with them are in the main shaped by agreement between London and Washington.

The Axis satellites are Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and, though its juridical position is not identical with theirs, Finland is, as a matter of fact, playing the part of an Axis satellite. All of them are within the military orbit of the Soviet Army, and in the formation of policy the controlling influence is in Moscow.

Both neutrals and satellites are under growing pressure to align themselves against Germany. Our immediate object is, of course, to shorten the war by tightening the blockade as respects the neutrals and by disorganizing the German defense in the satellites. Their immediate object, each in its own way, is to avoid the risks and consequences of changing their position before the military decision has been reached.

To Fall with Nazis

As between ourselves and Germany, there is this radical difference and they know it. Germany will stop at nothing. Until we are in a position to stop Germany from stopping at nothing, they judge it safer to wait and see. In the satellite countries, and in a false neutral like Franco's Spain, the government in power knows that it can have little hope of surviving an Allied victory. Once the Nazi system falls, all of the little Mussolinis will fall with it.

The immediate issues with all these countries will soon be swept into the maelstrom of the great battle for Europe. When that battle develops, it will not be one clearly defined military engagement on a few sharply defined fronts. It will be a multiple envelopment and a complex penetration which will churn up the whole continent.

Out of this will come not only victory and liberation, but also the real national and popular alignments which will fix the order of things in Europe. How deep will be the confusion, how prolonged the disorder, will depend in high degree on how well the existing governments have discerned what liberated Europe will be like, or how far they are looking backward and are sunk in their own past.

At the moment of liberation the confusion will be great. But so, too, will be the opportunities of statesmen who speak clearly and are prepared to act decisively.

Their Future

As respects the neutrals the larger question is whether and how they will take their place in the coming order of things. When we ask the neutrals to help us shorten the war, we are saying to them something which is much more than a matter of military expedience. We are saying, that we have now repaired our own grievous weaknesses and defaults, that we are now able to bring into being an order in which the small states will not be faced again with the dilemma of appeasing the aggressor or of being destroyed by him.

We are, then, saying to them that in that order those who have borne the heat and burden of the struggle will take their places ahead of those who have not. Moreover, in that order, which is no blueprint but the work of men and women who fought and suffered, no state can be permitted to stand aside and become the mask and the instrument of a German effort to rupture the settlement.

So, whatever the neutrals do during the war for fear of German reprisals, when the war is over and when this German threat has been removed, they cannot be permitted to provide devices by which the special regime which we shall impose on Germany can be evaded, undermined and destroyed.

HAPPY DAYS IN THE POLITICAL "STICKS"

Colleges, Military Education

By Warren A. McNeill
Associated Press Writer.

A SURVEY of opinion among college presidents suggests that educators favor military training in colleges, but they want programs "to be open only to those able to do college work."

The conclusion is contained in a report by American College Publicity association, through its research vice president, Arthur L. Brandon.

Mr. Brandon, director of Vanderbilt university news office, obtained and tabulated replies from 143 college heads to a questionnaire dealing with effects of war and post-war developments in education.

The institutions from which replies were obtained are fairly proportional to all the colleges and universities of the nation, both as to geographical distribution and division among state supported, private or other types of institution.

Answering a question as to whether, if there is future compulsory military training, "part of this training should coincide with college education and be available in the colleges for those able to do college work," 103 of those replying said yes, 17 said no. Ten had no opinion.

Another question, asking whether if there is compulsory military training certain portions should be available "only in the colleges at federal government expense," resulted in a 90-to-5 negative vote if such training was to be provided "regardless of the ability of the student to do college work." But a majority of 83 to 30 favored having some training given exclusively in the colleges "provided the student is able to do college work."

By a vote of 129 to 2 the replies favored exclusive use of colleges for higher education of veterans, as opposed to conversion of present military centers to such use, but there were suggestions that the colleges wanted the men only if they were under civilian control that camps might be used in the summer, and such facilities as army air fields might be used in connection with aviation training.

TO THE question "do you believe your institution after the war should operate on an 'accelerated basis'—no long summer vacations, nearly year-round," 58 of the college heads replied "yes" and 68 said "no". There were 114, however, who said they opposed continuation of the "concentrated basis" of study now required in military training programs, while only 10 favored retention of the heavier class schedules.

Commenting on acceleration, concentration and military training as a whole, Everett Case, president of Colgate university, was quoted as saying in a representative reply: "Except as continuous instruction may be necessary for returning veterans whose education has been interrupted and who consequently may be eager to economize time, I do not expect Colgate to continue with the present accelerated academic schedule after the war. If a year of compulsory military training is instituted, I think it should be conducted not at the colleges but at camps set up for the purpose under direct supervision of the armed forces.

"I would hope that a boy might have the option of going at a specified age, or when he finished high school. Such a program might necessitate a three-year instead of a four-year college course, in which event I personally would look favorably upon the academic calendar recently instituted at Vassar: i.e., three years of 40 weeks each. In the absence of compulsory military training I doubt if four years at college is excessive for any, save exceptional students. In general, I think our objective should be to see how far we can take our students educationally in four years, not how quickly they can meet certain minimum requirements."

Restricted History

(After perusing the United States History restricted by OWI to Europe.)

Listen, my children, and you shall hear
About everybody but Paul Revere—
About everybody but Nathan Hale,
(A very heroic and fearless male);
Hardly a man is now alive
Who will learn about April, seventy-five,
From the little United States history book
Which the OWI to Europe took.

* * *

There isn't a line about Pitcher (Molly)—
Or Farragut, Lawrence or Jones, by golly!
You will not find there a word, my son,
About Putnam, Greene or Washington—
About Barbara Frietchie's old gray head,
Or U. S. Grant who fought and bled—
About Saratoga or Valley Forge,
Or any commander whose name was George—
About Ticonderoga or Bemis Heights,
Or Old North Church and its belfry lights.

* * *

Hardly a writer swells with pride
In OWI o'er a horseback ride;
The alarm to Middlesex Valley and farm
Was no hot event; it was hardly warm!

* * *

The voice that rang on that night, and now
Was nothing compared to the voices NOW!
And why should a horse get a line at that
Unless it was listed a Democrat?

* * *

You'll find everything done by the Democrats
Since stock market crash to the new spring hats—
From the first air chat to the Wagner Act—
From the Moley days to the Moscow pact—
But hardly a word about Lincoln, who,
According to dope, was a good man, TOO!

It begins with a Roos" and ends with a "velt"!

It was March 4th by the village clock
When he crossed the bridge to the White House dock.
It was March 4th, back in thirty-three—
And that is the time to start history!

He had reached the goal, so he shot the horse!

Secret Weapon

By Truman Twill

It is official opinion, no less, that Germany is using a secret weapon by designing Paris hats for women so they will be copied by New York fashion parasites and foisted off on American women.

Something in Washington called the millinery stabilization committee has sent out telegrams warning members of the industry to be on guard. A WPB spokesman hints that the dastardly plot behind the whole thing is to make women want hats that take more material than wartime regulations allow.

So now we know, don't we, gentlemen? We know where all those funny looking hats came from. The herrenvolk wormed their way into Paris long before the war and began to demoralize America on the sly. This has been going on a long time.

We knew it, but the FBI didn't. When we screamed there oughta be a law, did we get any attention from Washington? We did not. When we snorted and wondered why women played follow-the-leader on every silly style foisted on them by way of Paris they called us isolationists and insinuated we were carrying our patriotism too far. But we were G-men all the time.

This sort of monkey business started years ago, in the days of the kaiser. The herrenvolk got their round heads together and decided to termite the moral fiber of gullible Americans. They greased a palm here and a palm there and lo and behold, unless it came from Paris it was no good.

They didn't stick to hats. They widened the field. They made skirts that hung all the way down to here, then the next year they changed them so they only hung down to here. Then when everybody had a short one, they changed to long ones again. It was all a game in international pressure.

But the only patriots who sensed what was going on and got on their ear were American men. Everybody else played follow the leader and loved it—and we men paid the bill. But the scheme backfired. It made America stronger, not weaker.

American men had to keep scrambling so fast to meet the bills for the changing fashions that they invented short-cuts and all kinds of ingenious tricks. Then when the whole thing finally came out and Germany tipped its hand America was toughened up for the showdown.

It will be a long time before we forget, nay men, how they thought they were fooling us—but let bygones be bygones. As a matter of fact, it would be a good idea to make the women wear those German hats. It would be a pleasure to spare a little extra material just for the laughs. This is a pretty dull war.

So They Say—

How anybody can see a quick conclusion to this war beats me.—Maj. Everett W. Holstrom, Tokyo raid pilot.

If the alternatives of war should require sending our army to defend the common cause, we are willing to do so. We are ready for it.—President Avila Camacho of Mexico.

For a Sweeping Republican Victory

Vote for

James Garfield STEWART for GOVERNOR

JAMES GARFIELD STEWART

- Mayor of Cincinnati for last four terms.
- An outstanding executive.
- Noted trial lawyer.
- Member of Cincinnati City Council for last six terms.
- Has led all candidates in Cincinnati in number of votes received for three successive elections.
- Born in Springfield, Ohio.
- Graduate of Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio.
- Honorary Doctor of Laws degree from Wittenberg College, Springfield.
- Profound student of the Bible, history, biography, politics and government.
- Two sons serving overseas—Potter, Lieutenant in U. S. Navy; Zeph, corporal in U. S. Army.

JAMES GARFIELD STEWART would make an ideal candidate and a distinguished governor. He has the training, the experience, the ability, the personality and the background to be Ohio's chief executive.

He is the logical Republican to succeed to the governorship and thereby assure the continuance of the high standards in Ohio's state government established under Governor John W. Bricker.

JAMES GARFIELD STEWART is a gifted orator. As the gubernatorial candidate he would bring great strength to the entire Republican ticket in the November election and would aid immeasurably in assuring victory for our national, state and local ticket.

It's a Wonderful Feeling

Living in a home of your own ... gardening on land that's yours brings a solid sense of security that's unbeatable. Don't let this grand feeling of "belonging" be marred by carelessness.
Investigate thoroughly the home you plan to purchase. Too often a fireplace in the living room or a rose covered doorway can blind you to defects in a house that will cause you future unhappiness.
We offer you the services of expert appraisers who can accurately judge the value and construction of your future home.
Our home financing experience has taught us that the best home ownership is based on careful planning and forethought, from the choice of your future home to the choice of your method of financing.

Election Officials Prepare for Tuesday Primary Vote

Number of Precincts Cut from 57 to 55; Names of State, District and County Candidates Listed.

The Marion county board of elections today began distribution of ballots for state and county primaries to be held Tuesday.

Marion county this year will have 55 instead of 57 precincts as before. Two precincts in the county were rearranged, lowering the number. The reduction was accomplished by joining four smaller to make two larger ones The precincts joined are Agosta and Montgomery under the name Agosta-Montgomery, and Morral and Salt Rock which will be known as Morral-Salt Rock. Voting places for the combined precincts in the county will be the township houses at Agosta and Morral.

Supplies were given to county precinct officials this afternoon City precinct officials will get theirs Monday from 2 to 5 p m Officials are to call at the board of elections office to obtain their supplies

One Special Issue

The only special issue to come before voters of the county is a tax levy in Pleasant township to provide funds for erecting a farm shop at Pleasant township school.

Polls will open at 7:30 a. m. and the deadline for voters to cast their ballots will be 7:30 p. m Times are eastern war time.

In the primary, delegates-at-large, alternates-at-large, district delegates and district alternates to the national party conventions will be elected. There are no contests among these candidates. Places for many precinct committeemen will be blank

LITTLE HOPE HELD FOR PRISONER LABOR

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 6—Two government agencies today held out little hope Ohio farmers and food processers would be able to augment a dwindling manpower reservoir with prisoner-of-war labor.

The state war manpower commission and agriculture extension service reported no action taken on employer requests for 10,500 war prisoner laborers already forwarded to the war department.

Officials of both agencies agreed, probable influencing factors indicated a large per cent of the requests might be refused.

E. L. Keenan, Ohio WMC director, said the state's lack of adequate housing facilities for war prisone. and the uncertain status of the Italian war prisoners were two of the factors involved.

He declared that only Camp Perry was equipped for care of war prisoners in Ohio and that successful use of many prisoners would depend on the Army's willingness to establish "side-camps" throughout the state. Prisoners must be returned to these camps each night, he explained

Gandhi's Release Act of Wisdom on Part of British

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Mahatma Gandhi's release from internment by the government of India, on the grounds of his serious illness, is bound to be widely interpreted as calculated to deprive him of the martyrdom which would come from dying while imprisoned.

Certainly, without attempting to read the government's mind, we can say that Gandhi's liberation is an act of wisdom, for when his death does come it will sweep India with emotion like a prairie fire. One handles sentiment like that with discretion.

The little mahatma is by far the most influential individual among the four hundred millions of that vast sub-continent. To understand this you must know that his chief hold on his people rests in his spiritual leadership, apart from his political dominance of the all India Congress. Countless lowly millions regard him literally as divine, and try to worship him despite his efforts to discourage this.

Gandhi Unworried

It is with reluctance that one discusses in cold print the death of a man who still lives However, I'm well enough acquainted with Gandhi to know that if he were informed that his passing was under discussion he would merely smile and crack one of his dry jokes. The Mahatma, veteran of many hunger-strikes, has walked with death too many times to let the final call worry him

The great question in most minds, and especially in the calculations of the New Delhi government, is what effect Gandhi's death will have (1) on the general population and (2) on the grave political crisis growing out of the battle for independence from England. We know that living he has been so powerful that he might have inspired revolution, had he so willed and had nonviolence not been one of his cardinal principles. What then will his death mean to India when it comes?

Well, of course there will be mourning throughout the land. And one seems to see a long line of weeping thousands following the mahatma's bier to the burning ghat for cremation in accordance with the Hindu faith. Predictions about an emotional country are unsafe, but if his people abide by his teachings there will be no demonstration of violence, though there's always danger that passions may get out of hand in isolated spots at such a time.

Gandhi's death will remove one of the great leaders of the masses through the ages. It will take away an influence which, despite its mistakes, has worked wonders for the social and moral uplift of his people. Still, it shouldn't cause demoralization among his followers, for others will carry on, though they cannot fill his place.

I should say that his successor in political leadership will be his great friend and disciple, Jawaharlal Nehru. This 55-year-old Brahmin (the highest Hindu caste) is one of the most brilliant of the Indian leaders and next to Gandhi is the most powerful political figure in the country. Nehru has deliberately kept his own striking personality in the background so as not to detract from the mahatma whom he reverences above all men. Nehru is popular and is highly respected by the British.

Another nationalist leader of whom we should hear much is Rajagopalachari. He is one of the moderates and is one of the best liked men in India, not only by his own people but by the British. He stands for compromise among the warring Indian factions and with the British government. His daughter, by the way, is the wife of Gandhi's son Devadas.

I am sure many British officials feel that the chances of a settlement of the Indian political crisis will be better with the removal of Gandhi's powerful influence, which has held out against compromise that the government has felt essential to reasoned progress towards India's sovereignty. Perhaps the chances of compromise will indeed be better, for the mahatma is a very stubborn person. However, that may be, as one who has known Gandhi and his India for many years your columnist feels impelled to record the very definite impression that when death takes the little mahatma it will be removing one of the great and—despite any mistakes—good men of history.

New Fight Develops Over G.I. Aid Bill

By The Associated Press

"state's rights" fight developed today over the educational provisions of the omnibus veterans' benefit bill

As educational leaders assailed the school features of the measure, which is slated for house consideration next week, and called it a "serious threat" to freedom of education, Rep Rankin (D-Miss) defended the plan as safeguarding state's rights "to the fullest extent."

SOME LOCAL BASEBALL FLAWS TO BE REMEDIED

NO organization, in athletics or any other line of endeavor, is perfect and 100 per cent satisfactory to all persons it affects. Marion's Ohio State league baseball team is no exception.

Manifestos and out-of-town persons who attended either or both of the two league-launching games Tuesday and Wednesday nights at Lincoln park with the Lima Red Birds are aware of several flaws in the organization and functioning of the Marion club that must be remedied soon.

The Marion team has been handicapped perhaps more than any other Ohio State league club in preparing for the 1944 season. For one thing, the club here got a woefully late start in setting up the financial organization and in the selection of a manager and team personnel. Manager Grover Hartley didn't know what his 20-man roster would be until last Monday, a trifle over 24 hours before the first ball was pitched in the Lidlifter with Lima. Possibly some of the 23 team candidates who were cut from the squad by Hartley were better players than some of the lucky 20 who were chosen to make up the team. Without a doubt some of the turned-down players did possess considerable baseball ability but Hartley simply didn't have enough time to make a thorough appraisal of the candidates before choosing his team. He's now centering his attention on strengthening the weak spots.

As you probably realize, there has been much to impede the establishment of a team here. But now we in Marion have a team, largely through the efforts of Joe Donnelly of Columbus, who with the backing of executives of top-ranking minor league and major league clubs, effected the reformation of the Buckeye circuit.

ENTHUSIASTIC interest was shown by fans in the first two performances of the team at Lincoln park. Some 1,500 turned out for the opener and 400 came back for Wednesday night's game. However, unless the heads of the Marion club soon make some innovations and improvements in the Lincoln park facilities and the procedure in conducting games, attendance is likely to shrink as the season progresses. The current three-game losing streak of the Marion team hasn't helped matters any, but regardless of the team's showing, with proper accommodations for games at Lincoln park attendance is likely to hold up throughout the season.

Marion people haven't had a home-town professional baseball team since 1937 and they're naturally eager for the national pastime to be played on local diamonds by a local squad. Most Marionites are so starved when it comes to baseball entertainment, they probably would jump at the chance to see a Marion team in action, no matter whether it wins or loses, but not under the conditions that existed for the two Lima games here.

That there is no top for the Lincoln grandstand is a fact known too well by fans. But most of them understand the problem of the Marion club directors when it comes to the construction of a roof on the stands. Labor and material are scarce, so don't place the blame on the shoulders of the present team in regard to there being no cover for the stadium. They're in the same boat when it comes to lights for the field. Before the lights can be installed a priority must be obtained from the War Production Board. Another problem to be faced when installation of the lighting plant begins will be extending a lead-in wire of more than a mile from the Pennsylvania railroad tracks to the wall park. That seems to be the only way electricity can be conducted to the park and it's admittedly a whale of a task to install this wire.

FANS attending any baseball game always like to know who the players are. But those at the first two Lima-Marion games had to be content with just watching the game and concocting names for the players. Scorecards were sold at five cents each at the two games but these were worthless as far as identifying the players was concerned. No names appeared on the scorecards and what's more displeasing to the fans, the starting lineups were not even announced before the game. That should be up to the umpire or at least to the club executives. Not even the starting batteries were reported to the crowd. The only time the players' names were mentioned was when pinch hitters were up to bat or a new pitcher took the hill.

MAYBE the Marion club got the scoreboard from the Central Ohio Light Co. in Findlay just for a decoration for the left field fence. Anyway, the board wasn't operated either Tuesday or Wednesday nights. Fans naturally want to know the score but they either had to ask the official scorekeepers or keep score themselves to find out for the first two Marion games.

Softball Campaign To Start May 22

Monday, May 22, has been set as the opening date for Marion's 1944 softball season and at the latest accounting, at least 15 teams will be vying for championship honors in four leagues, one more than were functioning last year.

The date for the campaign opener was set at a meeting of the Marion softball commission at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday night. The commission also laid down rules relating to player eligibility and a report was given on the plans of the city park board for repairing the city's three park softball fields—at Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley.

The four leagues which are expected to operate this year are the Sunday School, Industrial, Girls' and Commercial. The commission decided the Sunday School loop tentatively will play on Monday nights through the summer, the industrial circuit on Tuesday nights, the Girls' league on Wednesday nights and the Commercial league on Thursday nights. The nights for Industrial and Sunday School loop may be interchanged before the season opens, with the Industrial circuit recognized as the city's strongest and biggest attraction for spectators, possibly playing on Mondays and the Church circuit moving up to Tuesday.

Five teams have indicated they will definitely be in the Industrial league this summer. They are Huber, General Excavator, Fairfield, Universal Cooler and Commercial Steel. All of these teams, with the exception of Fairfield, were entered in the Industrial league last year. Old Fort Mills and Marion Steam Shovel also may enter the Industrial league, if organization of a team is completed before the season opens and player eligibility requirements are met.

In the Commercial league, which ran for the entire season last year as a two-man race between Coca-Cola and the Waldo Dodgers, has this year for its complement of teams Sandwich Bar, DeMolay, Co. M of the Ohio State Guard and Waldo. Italy Dairy Co. is a possible fifth entry for the league. However, if the Italy group whips up a squad made up solely of employes of the concern, it may choose to enter the Industrial loop.

Sunday School League

In the Sunday School league, Presbyterian, Epworth and St. Mary are definite entries with Greenwood still on the border line about filing an entry. The commission stipulated in its Thursday night meeting that the Church league must have four teams before it can operate this season. This same rule holds true for the girls' league, in which three teams have been entered—Fairfield, Huber and Scioto Ordnance Plant.

If another team is found for the Women's league, the loop will be the first of its kind in the history of Marion softball. Any other group of Marion or vicinity women interested in forming a team and registering in the league are requested to contact Marion Mewhorter, softball commission secretary, at the Y. M. C. A. on South State street, as soon as possible.

In the matter of player eligibility, the commission decided that the Industrial league requirements would be the same as last year. That is, all but two players on Industrial teams must be employes of the firm or factory they represent. Two players may be non-employes. There is no player limit for the Industrial, Sunday School or Girls' teams but in the Commercial league, where the eligibility lists are thrown wide open, a 15-player limit has been agreed upon. In the Commercial league, the organization or firm represented may secure as many non-employers for the team as it wishes, so long as the number doesn't exceed 15.

Friday night was left open in the 1944 season schedule for the replay of postponed games. Some postponed contests also may be played at night under the Lincoln park lights, when and if they are installed. No schedule has been drawn up as yet by the scheduling committee from the softball commission for that group is awaiting further developments in the program of Marion's Ohio State league club. The softball schedule will be mapped out so as not to conflict with the Ohio State league slate of games.

The grounds' committee reported to the commission Thursday night that arrangements have been made by the city park board to scrape the diamonds at all three city park ball fields and to install a new screen backstop at Garfield park. T. H. McKenney, commission president, said he personally would look after the installation of a new backstop at McKinley park.

Marion, Zanesville Clash Tonight in Opener of Series

The obviously weak pitching staff of Marion's Ohio State league baseball team was to be reinforced for tonight's fourth game of the season with Zanesville on the Zanesville field. Scheduled starting time is 8:30.

All Ohio State league contests scheduled for last night were rained out. The Marion team, slated to meet Lima in the fourth and final game of the series at Lima's Halloran Field last night, came back to Marion yesterday afternoon, the game being cancelled several hours before game time. These postponed contests will be played later in the season on some open date or a part of a Sunday doubleheader. Manager Hartley of Marion is convinced that his mound needs bolstering after three defeats in succession were racked up in the season-launching series with the Lima Red Birds, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights. Marion was outscored by Lima, 37 to 17 in the three contests, but actually outhit the Red Birds of Cliff Marr, 32 to 30.

Manager Hartley reported that a pitcher, and possibly another player or two, will join the team for the series at Zanesville, which will run through Monday. Eddie Gilliland of the Toledo Mud Hens and Bill Brubaker of the Philadelphia Phillies system have also offered to send players to the Marion team but Hartley says he probably will decline the offers, because he now has his regular squad of 20 men.

The Marion team was slated to leave Marion for Zanesville at 10 o'clock this morning. They meet the Dodgers of Jack Knight, tomorrow, tomorrow afternoon and Monday night. The locals come back to Lincoln Park Tuesday night for an eight-day stand. The Middletown Red Sox furnish the opposition in Tuesday night's home game.

Randy "Lefty" Edwards, who made the most creditable showing of any of the Marion moundsmen against Lima, was named by Manager Hartley to start on the mound against Zanesville tonight. In the season opener, Edwards allowed Lima eight runs, but only eight hits, while striking out seven batters.

Team Photos Taken As Season Opened

The accompanying photographs show the players who made up the Marion squad in the Ohio State league at the opening game last Tuesday night at Lincoln park. The photos were taken just before the opening game, a few minutes before the players had donned Marion's new uniforms for the first time.

Since the squad is oversize, there were a few more players than uniforms, and some had to wear Findlay team togs. The squad probably will be changed from time to time until it settles down with a 15-man group May 22. Teams in the league may carry 20 players during the first 20 days of the season, then must trim their squads to 15.

TEAMS TIE FOR TITLE

Each team sporting 61 wins and 44 losses, Schaffner-Denzer and Marion Building Supply finished in a two-way tie for first place in the final standings of the Men's All-Star bowling league. Each outfit posted two victories in the league's final showing at the Marion Recreation Center Tuesday night. It was erroneously reported in the Star that Marion Building Supply won the undisputed title in the league.

EPWORTH PRACTICE

The Epworth Church softball team of the Sunday school league will hold its first practice of the season at Garfield Park Monday night starting at 6 o'clock, Manager John S. Clark announced today. All team players and prospective players are asked to attend the workout.

FAT FREDDY SENDS HIS PHILLIES ON WINNING STREAK

Like Browns, They Refuse To Play Dead in Second Division.

By The Associated Press

First it was the St. Louis Browns and now it's the Philles spinning a fancy win streak when they are supposed to be playing dead in the second division.

Freddy Fitzsimmons' mature-hustling major leaguers and ex-Dodgers from the 1943 seventh place outfit have won five and tied once since their last defeat, April 30. The Yankees, too, have a five game streak and the Browns have won 12 of 15 games.

Ken Raffensberger soothed his way to a four-hitter and Al Nonney smacked a two-run homer as the rejuvenated Fat Cats shaded Brooklyn, 3-1, yesterday. Fitz' club could take the league lead by beating the Dodgers again today providing Cincinnati tops St. Louis.

The New York Giants lost their fifth in succession, a 3-2 verdict to Boston.

Nick Etten was Mr. Big in the Yanks' 11-7 triumph over the Red Sox, clubbing Tex Hughson of Joe Wood, Jr. for a homer, double and single, batting in two runs and drawing four walks to boost his average to .466. Etten now has hit safely in 11 consecutive games.

Early Wynn of Washington and Jesse Flores of the Athletics were rapped hard, but Ossie Bluege's Nats was able to come up with better relief pitching and a seven-run spurt in the last two innings for an 11-8 verdict.

Cold weather froze out the Pittsburgh-Chicago and Cincinnati-St. Louis games in the National and wet grounds postponed the St. Louis-Cleveland and Chicago-Detroit American league tilts.

STENGEL TO PILOT MILWAUKEE TEAM

By The Associated Press

Casey Stengel, one of baseball's greatest jokesters as well as a competent team pilot, will have a homecoming of sorts today when he is introduced to his new job by Charlie Grimm, whom he succeeds as manager of the Milwaukee Brewers.

For the new assignment means a return to the American association after a lapse of 13 years. From 1926 through 1931 Stengel managed the Toledo Mudhens and in 1927 piloted the team to its only pennant. Leaving the Mudhens, he coached the Brooklyn Dodgers two years, managed them in 1934-35-36, then spent six years as leader of the Boston Braves.

Grimm, who yesterday agreed to take over the Chicago Cubs managerial spot vacated by Jimmy Wilson, says he is confident Stengel will fill the bill at Milwaukee.

In his first look at the league-leading Brewers Casey will watch them battle the tough Columbus Redbirds who trail by only a half game.

There was no league action yesterday. The only game scheduled—Minneapolis at St. Paul—was postponed because of cold weather.

Sam Spence and Joe Kuhel, Senators—Topped late Washington rally with ninth inning home runs to beat A's, 11-8.

A 1½ Mill Levy

For a period of two years will be submitted to the voters of Pleasant Township School district Tuesday, May 9. This levy will provide an approximate sum of $15,000 for the construction of a vocational unit consisting of a shop, canning area, and class rooms. The present quarters have been condemned for such use. This new levy would be an increase of approximately ¾ of a mill as the present levy on the school bonds expires this year. A property with an assessed valuation of $10,000 would pay an increased tax of $7.50 above the present tax assessment. Be sure to vote Tuesday, May 9.

Red Skelton In Featured Role

"Whistling in Brooklyn," starring Red Skelton and Ann Rutherford, and "Cowboy Canteen," with Charles Starrett, Tex Ritter, Vera Vague and Jane Frazee, will make up the double bill at the Marion theater starting with the midnight show Saturday and running through Monday.

With Red Skelton again as Wally Benton, "the fox," "Whistling in Brooklyn" finds the star about to be married to Carol Lambert (Ann Rutherford). Situations arise wherein the would-be bride and groom face the problem of dodging the police and when they have successfully accomplished that, they find themselves prisoners to a notorious gang of killers.

"Cowboy Canteen" is a western musical in which Charles Starrett plays the part of a ranch owner who has been drafted. Jane Frazee, a vaudeville artist and her troupe offer to run the ranch. The establishment of a service men's canteen on the ranch is the method of bringing in all the musical acts of the show.

Tuesday and Wednesday the double features will be "Passport to Destiny" with Elsa Lanchester, Lenore Aubert and Gordon Oliver as the featured players, and "Stormy Weather," starring Lena Horne and Rochester.

"Passport to Destiny" presents the exploits of an English scrubwoman's attempts to kill Hitler.

Ken Maynard, Hoot Gibson and Bob Steele will star in "Westward Bound" and Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy in "Jitterbugs" on the double bill for Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

"Westward Bound" is the story of the three law enforcing men who call themselves the Trail Blazers.

HARDING A CAPPELLA CHOIR CONCERT SET

Plan Monday Night Program at Edison Jr. High.

Religious, spiritual and semi-classical numbers will be presented by the Harding High school a cappella choir Monday night at the annual concert in the Thomas A. Edison Junior High school auditorium. The program, directed by L. G. Jones, director of music in the public schools, will begin at 8:15 o'clock. Miss Elizabeth Johnson, violinist, will be the guest musician.

For the first half of the program the choir will sing "Grant Us Peace", Rosemiller Klien, "I Want To Be Ready," Nobil Cain, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul", Holbrook, "Climbin' Up the Mountain", arranged by Smith, and "Lead Kindly Light", Sandon-Purdy. The solo part in "Thine Is the Greatness", Bortnlansky, which will close the program, will be sung by Robert Somerlot.

Miss Johnson will be heard preceding the second part of the program. Her accompaniments will be played by Mrs. Harold K. Mouser. The choir will present the following numbers for the last half of the program: "Which Is the Properest Day To Sing," Dr. Arne, "Star of Descending Night," Emerson, "Windy Weather", Powell Weaver, "The Butterfly", Loomis, "Ifea's Castle", arranged by Harley-Aschenbrenner, and "The Lord Bless You and Keep You", Peter Lutkin.

Escapes Injury As Train Hits Auto

Dale Pinyard of 453 Blaine avenue escaped with lacerations and minor sprains when the car he was driving was struck by a northbound Pennsylvania freight engine at the Darius street crossing at 10 last night. Police reports show the car was carried about 50 feet north of the crossing. Pinyard told police he didn't see the train until it was too late. He was taken to City hospital where he was treated and released.

INFANT DAUGHTER DIES

Word has been received by relatives here of the death of the infant daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Marvin H. Roszmann 23 hours after birth at Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, Friday. The child was born prematurely Thursday morning and died Friday morning. The father, stationed at Camp Barkley, Tex. in the medical corps, is a former resident of Marion. He was expected to arrive in Columbus today. The condition of the mother, formerly Miss Gale Cox of Groveport, O., was reported as good.

Agriculture is Canada's most important single industry.

"ADVENTURES OF MARK TWAIN," now showing through Thursday at the Ohio theater, brings Fredric March and Alexis Smith, above, as the American author and his wife.

"The Uninvited," Mystery And Romance Film, on Palace Bill

"The Uninvited" starring Ray Milland, Ruth Hussey, Donald Crisp and Gail Russell will be shown at the Palace theater starting Sunday and continuing through Wednesday.

Unearthly spirits, a haunted house, and complicated situations all leave room for a thread of romance in this picture. Miss Russell as the granddaughter of Donald Crisp portrays a somewhat psychic young lady who is apparently possessed with telepathic powers. Through this medium, she senses the presence of her dead mother in Windward House where she formerly lived. Miss Hussey and Milland, brother and sister, had previously purchased the home from Gail's grandfather.

Gail is drawn to the old house and the story, which starts calmly with the sale of the property, increases in intensity. Climax of the film is brought about when Gail, following a seance, becomes ill and the other principals decide it is time to really track down the invisible menace which threatens the sanity of all concerned.

A double feature, "Women In Bondage" with Gail Patrick and Nancy Kelly and "Phantom Lady" starring Franchot Tone, Ella Raines and Alan Curtis will play Thursday through Saturday.

Miss Patrick and Miss Kelly are co-starred in "Woman in Bondage" as two German women who eventually suffer persecution and brutality at the hands of the Hitler government.

The story is a series of dramatic incidents building into a drama of conditions which are little realized by persons living outside Germany. It demonstrates how all moral precepts of the girls and young women of the Reich are being destroyed at the direction of the government, bent solely on the breeding of a super race of warriors.

"Phantom Lady" is a combination love-mystery with the theme centering around a woman's hat. Miss Rains plays the role of a young woman in love with a guiltless man condemned to die for his wife's murder because no one, including the jurors, believes his alibi that he was with a nameless lady wearing a silly hat at the time of the crime.

Special flashbacks of sports and scenes from old silent films will be shown during the week honoring the fiftieth anniversary of motion pictures.

DECISION AWAITED IN JUDGE CROW SUIT

Special to The Star

KENTON, May 6—The $400,000 taxpayers' suit against estate of the late Appeals Court Judge Phil M. Crow of Kenton, first in a series of money claims due to be aired in Hardin county common pleas court during the coming months, was completed late Friday and Judge Arthur D. Tudor announced that his decision would be reserved until he has had time to study the points of law involved.

Carlos A. Faulkner, Kenton attorney, brought suit against the Crow estate in behalf of the auditor of state, contendnig that the late jurist, between Sept. 20, 1921, and Jan. 31, 1940, presented illegal expense statements approximating $30,000 for which he received state warrants. He asked the court to order refund of that amount from the Crow estate, plus accrued interest and punitive damages.

During the five-day trial, thirty-two persons testified and depositions of four others were presented. Exhibits of the plaintiff included warrants Mr. Crow had cashed during the 19½ years he presented expense statements for trips he said he made between Kenton, his legal residence, and Lima, where he actually resided, to attend court sessions; certified copies of gas and power company bills that had been sent to 118 East Franklin street, Kenton, where he said he resided; minutes of the Kenton Public Library association, of which he was a trustee; and depositions of Mae Fleck, Martin S. Mathews, Russell H. Kear and H. L. Mason of Upper Sandusky regardnig court trips Judge Crow had made to Wyandot county.

THREE GIVEN FINES

Three men pleaded guilty in municipal court today to intoxication and disorderly conduct charges and were fined $25 and costs each. They were: James Ritter of South Main street arrested by city police at 12:58 a. m., Clarence Chalfont of near Marion, arrested on East Church street at 12:47 a. m. and Harry Chalfont, also of near Marion, arrested about 11 p. m. Friday.

Mark Twain in Movie at Ohio

"The Adventures of Mark Twain" starring Frederick March and Alexis Smith and featuring Donald Crisp, Alan Hale, C. Aubrey Smith and a host of others is now playing at the Ohio theater and will continue through Thursday.

The Warner Brothers' production brings more than 100 characters in this story based on the life of the beloved author and humorist. The film is almost a one-man story, with March appearing in most of the scenes portraying Twain's boyhood experiences as "pirates" on the Mississippi to adulthood when he was recognized worldwide as a humorist.

Alexis Smith is cast as Mrs. Twain, and five of America's literary greats, John G. Whittier, Henry W. Longfellow, Oliver Wendel Holmes, Ralph Waldo Emerson and Mark Twain are portrayed in one scene.

"Uncertain Glory" co-starring Paul Lukas and Errol Flynn and featuring Jean Sullivan, will start Friday and continue through Thursday.

Basically a story of conflict between pursued and pursuer, "Uncertain Glory" unfolds against the background of occupied France. Flynn is cast as Jean Picard, French thief and murderer, with Paul Lukas as an inspector of the French police.

Picard is given one chance of self-redemption when the lives of 100 innocent Frenchmen are placed in his hands as he becomes a proposed hostage to the Nazis. Jean Sullivan is the young French peasant girl who falls in love with the criminal and has three days of "uncertain glory."

PUBLIC SUPPORTS WARD IN SEIZURE

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N. J., May 6—Early returns of a nationwide survey of public opinion by the Gallup poll show that 61 per cent of those with opinions think the government followed the wrong policy in taking over the Montgomery Ward plants in Chicago. The question put to a cross-section of the nation's voters was: "Do you think the government did the right thing in taking over the Montgomery Ward plants or was it a mistake?"

Think the government made mistake, 61 per cent.

Think did right thing 39 per cent.

One person in eight interviewed had no opinion.

"White Cargo" and Western Film at State Theater

"White Cargo" with Hedy Lamarr and Walter Pidgeon and "Omaha Trail" with James Craig and Dean Jaggers will be shown Sunday and Monday at the State theater.

Tuesday and Wednesday the program will be "Dead Man's Gulch" with Don Barry and Lynn Merick, and "Someone to Remember," featuring M. Paige and J. Crane.

"He's My Guy," featuring Dick Foran and Irene Hervey, and "Frontier Fury" with Charles Starrett and Jimmy Davis will be screened Thursday through Saturday.

Paper was introduced into Europe at the beginning of the 10th century.

The sheer walls of the Marble Gorge in Grand Canyon are 2,000 feet high.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

"YOU MEAN, if it's after midnight?" Sam Ticer asked, plainly dismayed, and I remembered his often repeated boast, "I usually go to bed by nine o'clock, maybe twice a year it's ten, but no later."

"I'm sure it won't be that late," I said, "but, no matter if it's nearly morning, I want to see him."

"You won't have to stay up, Pa," Jerry Ticer said. "Me and Junie'll take turns sleepin' on the sofy and waitin' up for Charlie."

"Yes, and a lot of good you'll be tomorrow," his father scoffed.

Bad Luck

"But that will be my bad luck, Mr. Ticer," I said pleasantly. "You remember we've arranged for Jerry to come over early tomorrow morning to stay at our house while I am gone to the city. So I will have to pay the penalty if he's sleepy.

"By the way, Jerry,"—I turned to the wide-eyed man with the eternally boyish face—"why don't you bring your sleeping things over tonight when you come back with Charley and Junior?"

"I'm sorry, Mis' Graham," he said, with a promptness unusual to him and a side glance at his father, who had drawn his bushy brows together forbiddingly. "But it wouldn't be right to leave Pa with all them morning chores. I kin git up earlier and git mine all done before it's time for me to come over so's you kin git that early train."

"I'm sorry, too, Jerry," I said, "for proposing such a thing. I had forgotten how much you people have to do on the farm these days."

Grins

Sam Ticer's eyebrows unknitted and a slow grin stretched his mouth.

"Everybody forgits once in a while," he said. "Now, you're sure you don't want nuthin' more of us?"

"Absolutely sure," I said. "Good night, both of you, and—thank you so much."

"Good night—and welcome," they said together, and then they were gone. Jim locked the kitchen door behind them, and turned back to the hall, meeting Katie as she reached me with her arms filled with the things which I had bidden her bring me.

"Now, if you'll stand ready," I said, beginning to cut absorbent cotton into small thick pads and gauze into triple folded yard length pieces, Jim and Katie stood silently watching me, Jim stolid as usual, Katie breathing excitedly down my neck. I was glad when I had finished my cutting, and was ready for the next step.

"Jim, will you please turn this first man over, and then lift him up to a sitting posture?" I asked. "Hold him there, while Katie and I blindfold him."

While Jim obeyed me, I handed Katie one of the gauze strips.

Venomous Eyes

"Hold this until I ask for it," I directed, then spoke to the man Jim was holding in a sitting posture, and whose eyes were glaring venomously into mine.

"Tip your head away back," I told him crisply. "No, not to one side, but straight back with eyes looking directly at the ceiling. That's better. Now close your eyes. Whether you do or not makes not the slightest difference to me, but this will be easier on you if you do."

Purposely I made my voice give the effect of ice clinking in a glass, and had the satisfaction of seeing the man supported in Jim's arms obey me implicitly.

I laid the absorbent cotton pads, each enclosed in a small gauze wrapping, on the man's closed eyes. Then I took from Katie's hands the length of gauze, placed it across the pads, and tied the ends in a secure knot at the back of the man's head.

Fastens Towel

When I had slipped a pad of cotton wrapped in gauze beneath the knot to ease its pressure, for I had no desire to emulate Prussian methods, I took one of the towels Katie had brought, folded it, placed that across the forehead, eyes and most of the nose of the bound man, and fastened the ends of the towel securely with safety pins.

"There!" I said, stepping back, after testing the tautness of the towel "I think that will do. Now for the second man."

I repeated my first procedure with each of the other three men, a routine marked with but one unusual incident. When I was bending over the fourth man, my busy screening him from the others, he looked up into my eyes, not venomously, as the others had done, but with something earnest, compelling in his blue eye. Then he murmured, praseodum on, from the side of his mouth.

"I want a two-handled bowl of hot soup!"

My lips framed an astonished "What!" but before I could utter the words, his tied hands went up to my lips in a gesture for silence, and his eyes begged me not to speak.

Then he murmured again in the same fashion, but this time, only two words.

"Tell him!"

YOUR HEALTH

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Stomach Ulcer

The treatment of different diseases depends on circumstances. Sometime. Nature alone cures, and all we do is to help her out and not interfere. Sometimes we have a specific curative drug. Sometimes we modify the patient's way of life to conform to the changed circumstances produced by the disease.

In the last class belongs the management of ulcer of the stomach or duodenum. Our management in these conditions is quite scientific in that it is based on an understanding of the deranged physiology involved. In the great majority of instances it relieves the symptoms completely, provided it is faithfully continued for about a year or two. A disadvantage is that our ulcer management is not 100 per cent perfect and in the very severe cases the more drastic measures of surgery must be called in.

The cause of ulcer is not certainly known. It is a round punched out solution of continuity on the wall of the stomach or duodenum, from which the mucous membrane has become denuded, leaving a tender, raw surface exposed to the rough elements in the food and the gastric juice. This is what causes the pain and discomfort.

Most of these ulcers are not in the stomach proper, but just outside in the first part of the small intestine, the duodenum. Incidence shows that there are from ten to thirty of these duodenal ulcers to one stomach ulcer. Hence for convenience we prefer to call the group peptic ulcer. Incidentally lay writers are always talking about "stomach ulcers;" they are almost never multiple: "ulcer" is the proper term; one is enough.

Perhaps one feature of the causation is that the stomach juice is always higher in acidity than normal in these cases. The gastric secretion always contains a proportion of hydrochloric acid in health; this is necessary for digestion, breaking up the proteins in the preparatory stage of protein digestion. But in ulcer cases this acid is proportionately high and undoubtedly the highly acid secretion plays a part in irritating the delicate base of the ulcer and keeping it from healing.

Hence one feature of our attack on an ulcer is to neutralize this excess acid in the gastric juice. For this we have excellent remedies in the alkali powders—soda bicarbonate or plain baking soda, and magnesium oxide (calcined magnesia). Other valuable antacids are bismuth and the newest is colloidal aluminum hydroxide. The latter not only neutralizes the acid secretion but by its astringent action is thought to hasten healing of the ucer. It is non-toxic and can be used over long periods of time without deleterious effects.

Diet is a valuable adjunct in all ulcer treatment, and in many cases the ulcer can be controlled by diet alone. The standard Sippy diet used at the beginning of all ulcer treatment, when the symptoms are severe, is a glass (3 ounces) of half milk and half cream every hour through the day from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. This regime can be continued for several weeks as it furnishes from 1200 to 2000 calories, depending on the richness of the cream.

Graduating from this the ulcer patient eats a bland diet of well-cooked lean meats, toast, milk, eggs, pureed or mashed vegetables and fruit juices. Coffee or tea are allowed. To avoid are the three S's—sweet, sour and spiced food. Deserts upset and so do fried foods. The worst article of diet is from white bread—always use toast. The best is the breast of a lean broiled spring chicken. Experiments show that many ulcer patients are on a low level of Vitamin C and thiamine intake and perhaps should correct this by adding concentrated vitamin preparations.

Most MacArthur Support Goes To Dewey in Survey

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 6—Since General Douglas MacArthur has cast aside himself as a possible Republican presidential candidate, the question arises as to which of the remaining Republican or Democratic candidates his supporters will now favor.

In its most recent survey on Republican candidate preferences, the Institute asked MacArthur supporters to name the person they would prefer second to MacArthur.

On this basis a majority of General MacArthur's followers prefer Governor Thomas E. Dewey, who already tops the list of Republican rank and file preferences in every section of the country.

In the latest survey preceding General MacArthur's statement eliminating himself from the running, the military leader was shown to have Republican support totaling 20 per cent.

The following table shows how the MacArthur support distributes itself on a second choice basis among other Republican or Democratic candidates remaining:

Most of the other second choices were for Democratic candidates, with the rest divided among Wendell Willkie, who dropped out of the race in early April; Eric Johnston, U. S. Chamber of Commerce head, and Governor Earl Warren of California.

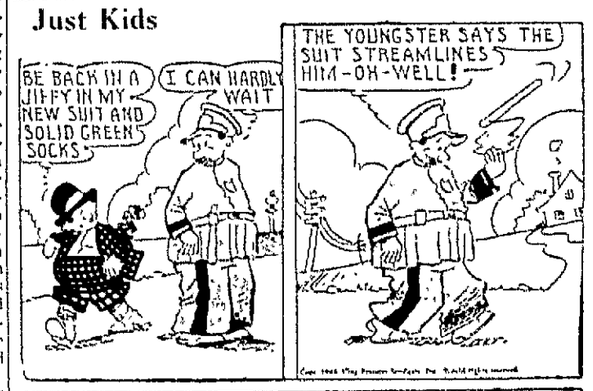

The slave trade began in 1503 when Portuguese landed the first shipment of Negroes at Santo Domingo.
